Editor's Note

Souvenir, a French word, means something which serves as a reminder. Just as a post card reminds us of a place we once visited, a yearbook reminds us of our high school days. It organizes events, names, dates, and places. It records fashion trends, steady couples, group activities, teeth that wore braces, sports scores, and academic achievements. Whether our yearbooks are stored on a shelf, in a drawer, or under a bed, whenever we want to relive the years spent at CHS, we have only to open them and leaf through the pages and the nearly forgotten becomes again familiar. A yearbook, full of photographs and memories, is a trunk full of souvenirs.

English emphasizes thought

English classes, ranging from Speech I to Advanced Rhetoric, have always provided a great challenge to the students of CHS. Student English activities include such various things as speech making, drama, multi-ethnic literature and creative writing, all of which are in addition to the basic study of grammar. The faculty of the English department, with the addition of two newcomers, Mrs. Winings and Mr. Parke, have always pushed CHS students to the limit, often encouraging hidden talents in many. English is and always will be an important part of CHS student's education.

David Joley, Larry Melton, Anne Biggs and Julie Easton discuss the Iranian hostages.

What do you mean, Mrs. Jones?

Speech II's production of "Up the Down Staircase."

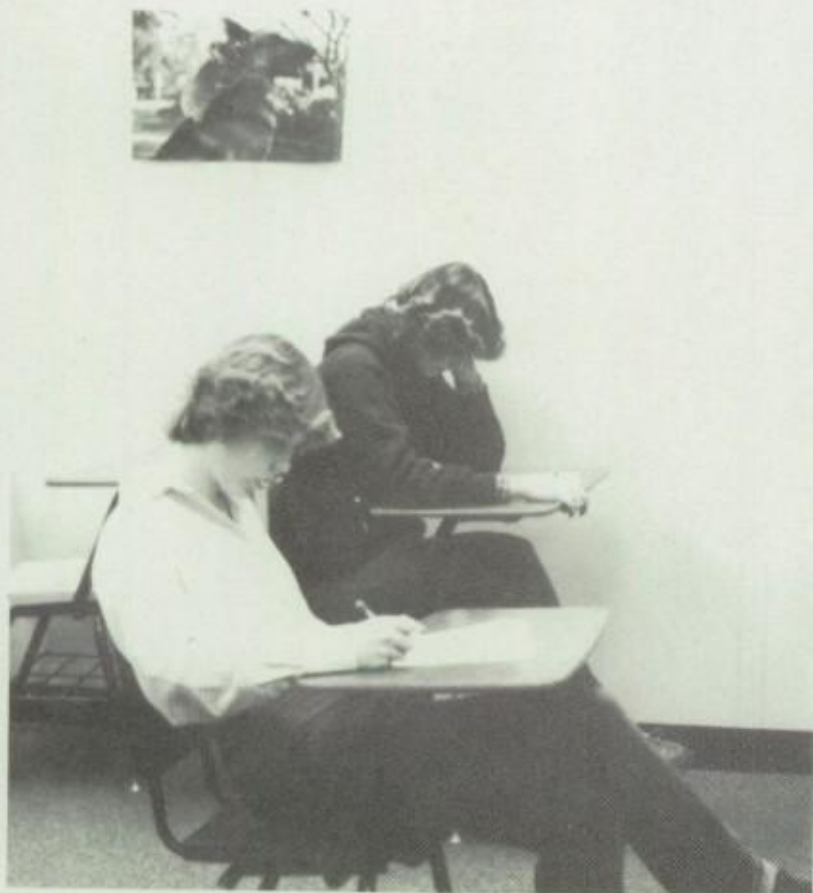

Paul Slifer receives another "A" paper to the envy of all.

Mrs. Connolly provides assistance to Mike Hankenson.

Lana Reddick combines work with pleasure.

Robert Perrin offers seniors constructive writing tips.

Freshmen step into the limelight.

Writing and Research evokes emotion in Kelly Yamamoto.

Math manipulates minds

Mrs. Smitley helps Nancy Fluckey and Lorri Winnett with a difficult problem.

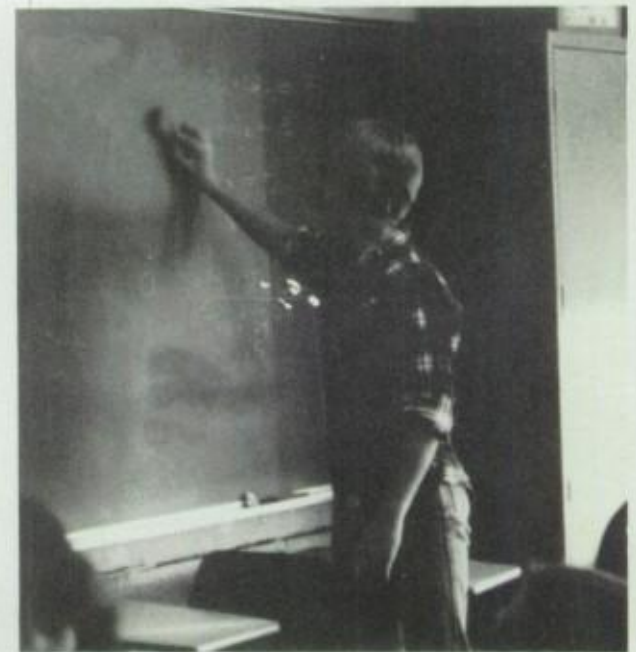

Mrs. Boroughs explains work problems to Randy Johnson.

Many try their hands at computer programming.

The geometry class works on a proof.

Darrin Hurst uses elbow grease.

Mrs. Dodson clarifies an Algebra I assignment for Sherilyn Smith.

Mrs. Ballsrud introduces a new theorem.

Math is an important part of today's industrialized society. Students can learn anything from the basics in math to pre-calculus. The math department teaches students general and consumer math for everyday life and college preparatory courses for those wishing to go on with their education after high school. This fine college prep program consists of Algebra I, geometry, Algebra II and pre-calculus. Because the junior high is offering Algebra I to eighth graders, the high school can expand its math curriculum to include an advanced trigonometry class. This will mean that some freshmen will begin their high school math careers with geometry.

Science explores new horizons

John Merryman ponders a chemistry problem.

Mr. Ruddell chuckles about the method used to solve this physics problem.

Mr. Adkins sheds light on color blindness.

A Biology II experiment goes well . . . for a change.

Science uses the basics of life to help its students learn about life. Biology I, Biology II and Environment and Ecology teach students the facts of life itself: genetics, the climate, and our surroundings. Chemistry is for the college-bound student, while physics is for potential engineers. Overall, the sciences help students learn and understand more about themselves and the world around them.

Social Studies stimulates curiosity

Abraham Lincoln (Richard Blake) addresses social studies classes.

Todd Williams watches with anticipation as Mr. Ambrose grades a test.

Mr. Schmitz and Mr. Walters work diligently on mid-term grades.

Blake Hegarty listens intently to President Lincoln's policy.

Connie McDivitt and Kelly Rankin work at the 1980 Harvest Frolic.

Kevin Boyer and Scott Enslen enjoy a rousing class discussion.

Along with many Americans, C.H.S. students and the social studies department attempt to analyze and understand the workings of our nation. The 1980 Presidential election and the Iranian Hostage crisis stimulated much discussion, which echoed through C.H.S. halls.

Besides the use of conventional books and learning materials, C.H.S. students were honored with a "Presidential Address and Press Conference." Actor Richard Blake portrayed President Lincoln while some C.H.S. students assumed roles as respected members of the press.

All Charleston High School students become familiar with the social studies department in that they are required to take freshman Civics and junior American History. Students show their enthusiasm for learning about their heritage and society by eagerly signing up for such classes as World History, Insights in Democracy, and Sociology. Future leaders and history makers may very well be found in every history room at C.H.S.

Languages unite cultures

The '80-'81 school year was a year filled with new things for the CHS foreign language department. Absent from the curriculum this year was Latin, and in its stead the department offered French I along with several sections of Spanish. One of the benefits that comes from taking a foreign language is learning about another country's culture. Doing this involves unusual activities. For example, French I students dabbled in crepe-making, and Spanish III classes prepared "Huevos Rancheros." French students also celebrated some of that country's holidays like Mardi Gras, and all language classes, in order to sharpen their conversational skills, wrote and performed skits and TV programs. Even those who were not involved in these classes profitted from the language program; they had the pleasure of hearing authentic foreign carols at Christmas time and of seeing an eye-catching bulletin board on the third floor every day. Next year the department will offer French II.

Scott Funk, Alice Kramer, Renee Franklin, Maria Kapaum, and Jennifer Shafer take Spanish seriously.

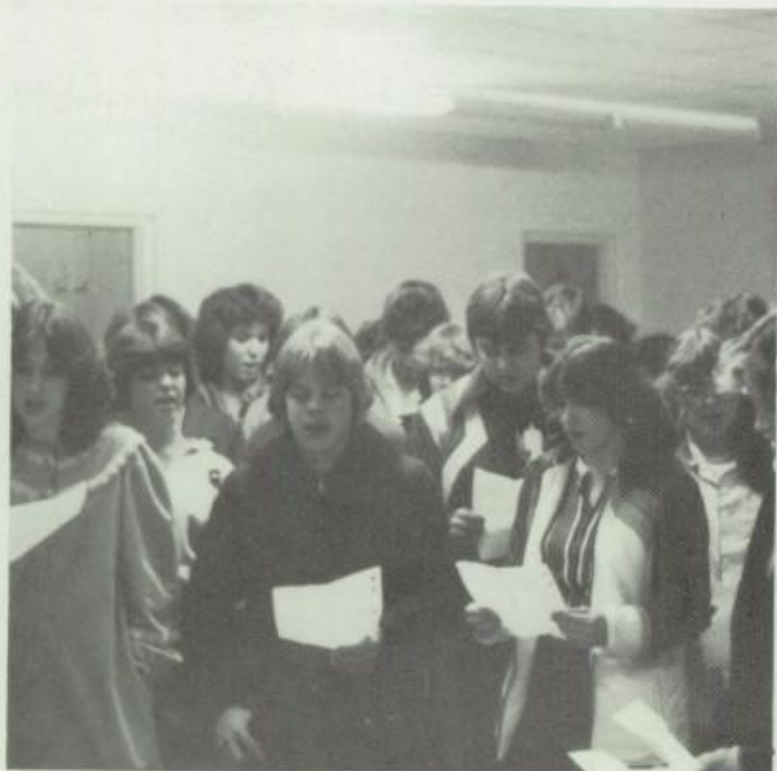

Customers Becky Ingle, Jeanette Zwicky, and Linda Pfeiffer give garçon Kevin Harry a hard time.

Sonya Weaver masters adjective agreement.

Cathy Sanders improves her accent by listening to the language lab.

For some, Spanish presents "problemas."

CHS students get down to business

Jane Pfeiffer turns in her final copy.

Many of the students graduating from Charleston High School hope to secure jobs in the business world. In order to start them on this endeavor, the business curriculum offers useful skills. Among these are Typing 1, record-keeping, office practice, Shorthand 1, and accounting. The various courses allow the business-oriented students to become well acquainted with everyday machines and procedures. Even if the student is not seeking a business career, acquiring basic business skills helps in all walks of life.

Mrs. Louthan makes another assignment.

Christina Percy adds up yet another column of expenses.

Connie McDivitt transcribes dictation.

Students try for a few more words per minute.

Miss Lane explains recordkeeping procedures.

Mrs. Buffenmeyer dictates a business letter to her shorthand students.

Shop houses talent

Troy Cuppy and David Dallas demonstrate that working in pairs often helps get the job done.

Building Trades offers students a chance to apply the skills they have learned in the classroom by putting them to use in building a house. Beginning in September and finishing in May, the students constructed the house from the ground up. It takes two school years to finish a house. When the house is finished and sold, the sale money is used to help pay for the building costs. Industrial arts classes teach students about electronics, metals, architectural drafting, woodworking, and power mechanics. Although these classes involve a lot of shop work, they also require knowledge of technical terms, book work, and problem solving.

Bill Bosler and Bob Lovell put it together.

Greg Drury strives for perfection.

Bill Burris concentrates on making precise measurements.

Rob Coffey and Mr. Weber discuss what's next.

Home Ec requires expertise

If John Dewey could have seen this year's home-ec department, he would have been amazed at how far practical education has progressed. Unique and realistic projects make today's classes interesting and meaningful. Adult living students planned and participated in a mock wedding ceremony performed by Mr. David. Child development classes spent time working at a local day care center. Students in parenting classes discussed what it takes to be parents by spending a week looking after their "egg children." Drawing floor plans and choosing homes were among the activities in the living environment classes, and the food and nutrition students made colorful nutrition posters which were displayed in the library for everyone's benefit. The foreign language classes were able to taste foreign foods thanks to the professional catering classes. Indeed, the home-ec department prepares students for the real world.

Agriculture rejuvenates

Andy Kelly, Sam McElwee, David Maxey, Roy Corder, Brad Wetzel, Marilyn Childress, Debbie Carey and Dawn Replogle prepare notes for class.

Ann Therese Webb stops to pet a piglet at the F.F.A. petting zoo.

Dawn Replogle and Debbie Carey enjoy the animal zoo.

Because CHS is surrounded by many agricultural communities, it seemed only natural that agriculture classes were reinstated this year at CHS. Having been eliminated several years ago during a budget crunch, they have come back with amazing popularity. Both boys and girls were attracted to a wide variety of classes which taught business procedures, livestock judging, soil science, and welding. Students also picked and kept records of individual projects. Also, in connection with the F.F.A., they sponsored petting zoos for elementary children, the Special Olympics, and Celebration '81. Next year the agriculture department proposes to be even better with more classes and even more F.F.A. involvement in the school.

Chorus tunes up

Although the CHS chorus had been a part of the high school's extra-curricular activities for many years, it became an elective course to be taken during regular hours in the 1980-81 school year. Mrs. Swickard, the director of the chorus, was quite pleased with the transition. During the first semester the chorus traveled to Paris where it joined seven other schools in forming a "group chorus." Among its other activities were trips with the band to Marriott's Great America and with the PAC to "My Fair Lady" in Chicago. "This year has been very productive for the chorus. I am pleased," expressed Mrs. Swickard.

Art expands horizons

Paula Waltrip perfects her pottery.

Jim Morice gives his foot the upper hand.

Every student loves an art class, and here at CHS it is no different. Such highly requested courses as Art I, beginning drawing and painting, advanced drawing and painting, and pottery are offered now with plans for a new addition to the curriculum called living art to be offered next year. Much of the credit for the popularity of these classes can be attributed to the art teachers, Mrs. Lowe and Mrs. Lathrop. Mrs. Lathrop commented, "I try to relate art to the world around us. For example, my Art I classes painted watercolors of animals on the endangered species list. My classes also enjoy experimenting with new media," she added, "such as etching on plexiglass." CHS was represented this year in the National Scholastic Art Competition by Simone Geffke and Pam Feterl, whose works were displayed in Champaign.

Courses offer change of pace

Coach Bussard explains the principles of good health.

Alan Campbell gives his all for the good of the team.

Coach Baker reviews the basics of basketball.

Bill Paris and Mike Stewart head for the showers.

Three classes that students at CHS are required to take are health, driver's education, and physical education. These classes offer a refreshing change from the normal routine found in many other classes. P.E. acquaints students with various fun-filled sport activities ranging from bicycling to swimming. Health familiarizes everyone with basic body functions and ways of keeping these functions in good working order. Also, there is the long-awaited course of Driver's Education, in which students learn to become responsible drivers through instructed first-hand experience. These three important classes add a welcome variety to the CHS curriculum.

Co-op, CWT get the job done

Cooperation is the key ingredient in the cooperative education and cooperative work training programs at C.H.S. Students in the co-op and C.W.T. classes taught by Mrs. Louthan, Mr. Easter, and Miss Coon, attend four classes a day before going to work. They not only earn money, but also gain valuable work experience and basic knowledge of the fields they may want to enter. Many Charleston merchants aid these programs by employing CHS students. "Some businesses in town have employees who have all taken co-op and continued to become full-time employees," stated Mr. Easter. He also added, "Freshmen and sophomores should know that they need to contact us long before their senior year to find out if they meet the requirements for co-op."

Christina Percy, Deanna Franklin, and Pat Buckler pose with their employers at the Co-op "Thank you, Bosses" dinner.

Christina Percy gains experience doing secretarial work in the CHS Media Center.

Diversity flourishes

Mrs. Percy demonstrates the use of crash cart equipment to Lauri DeRuiter.

Steve Lawyer and Rob Schaefer analyze computer data.

Lisa Bennett and Brenda Hudson discuss school plans with Mrs. Dively.

Project STAY students talk freely with Mrs. Dively.

Hope Dunne cooks the old-fashioned way.

Mrs. Percy explains to Lana Reddick and Anita Potter that the kneebone is connected to the shin bone.

PAC promotes the arts

This year the Performing Arts Club, sponsored by Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Swickard, was comprised of about 75 members. The members undertook several projects to raise money for the performing arts. Among these were selling cheese, presenting the play "Lil' Abner" in conjunction with the Charleston Community Theater, and sponsoring a variety show during homecoming week. The money raised by these projects was used primarily to pay bills, but they also had a lot of fun. The members went roller skating and took a trip to Chicago to see the musical "My Fair Lady" at the Arie Crown Theater. When asked how she felt about this year's Performing Arts Club, Mrs. Jones commented, "Performing Arts is for everyone-actors, lighting crew, and stage crew alike. I feel the kids this year have been very enthusiastic."

Kermit and Miss Piggy participate in the variety show.

Speech team sounds off

The Charleston High School Speech Team for the 1980-81 school year actively attended as well as conducted tournaments. Enthusiastic students prepared for and competed in various events, ranging from extemporaneous speaking to radio. The team of approximately thirty-five was under the fine direction of Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Winings. The group trekked to several away meets including a few overnights at Bloomington-Normal. Although no one made it to the state contest, CHS speech students were quite active in postseason action. By developing speech communication skills, this organization is an important part of the school's fine extra-curricular activities.

A.F.S. promotes friendship abroad

Cindy Chase anticipates an exciting year in Australia.

The American Field Service club was active during the 1980-81 school year. Its activities included two "tag days", during which A.F.S. members trekked to local grocery stores and traded A.F.S. tags for donations from shoppers; a rummage sale; and a poster sale. The proceeds from the money-making projects were used for the club's treasury and to help send C.H.S. students abroad. An A.F.S. concert was held in February. Twenty members displayed the authentic dress and flags of different countries. The club's officers met every Wednesday during tutorial period, and the club members met every other Wednesday after school. This year's C.H.S. exchange students were Cindy Chase, who went to Australia, and Annette Cinq-Mars, who went to Chile. Conversely, our school played host to Simone Geffke, from Bavaria, who spent the year with the Felstehausen family. The club officers were Cindy Chase, president; Annette Cinq-Mars, vice-president; Bob Briggerman, secretary; Kathy Compton, treasurer; and Renee Franklin, historian.

Student council governs

Student Council representatives, elected in Spring, 1980, highlighted the year with dances and special activities. Activities ranged from "Trick or Treat Day" to "'Twas the Night Before Christmas" to "Punk Day" in the Spring.

The always busy Homecoming week featured the Saturday night dance. Queen Kathy Shaefer and her court reigned in Baker Gym which was transformed by Southern Illinois Audio's light show. More than the usual number of students attended.

Christmas Week, a first for student council, turned out to be a great success. The week was highlighted by the canned food drive and the "Decking of the Halls" competitions. The seniors scored a victory by collecting cans of food while the juniors' artistic ability prevailed.

Student council turned the dating tables with their next two dances. Girls asked guys to the dances and for special dinners and snacks. February 14th was the appropriate day for the Mr. Irresistible Dance. Morp, student council's "social event" of the year, capped the student-centered activities.

Student Council Week, April 27-May 1, was the finale for 1980-81. The five-day stretch featured punk rock and teacher-student exchange days. Indeed, student council generated enthusiasm and school spirit throughout the year.

Recorder takes note of CHS

The 1980-81 Charleston High School Recorder in its never ending struggle for excellence, has attempted once again to portray CHS with colorful pictures and various written, explanatory passages. With its largest staff ever, the organization will have published the biggest, most expensive yearbook in the school's history. In addition to selling popcorn at numerous athletic events, the Recorder has raised money by selling advertisements and also by raffling off dinners to dance couples. The members of this organization, under the supervision of Carol Bomball and Patti Webb, have worked very hard in preparing this publication. We hope you enjoy souvenirs of Charleston High School.

Press prints another memory

The success of the CHS Press page in each Saturday's Times-Courier is due to the hard work that twenty-four CHS students have put forth this year. The press, in its third year of printing, has annually been sponsored by Mrs. Wiseman. The young journalists do all their own writing and photography, hurrying each week to make that Thursday deadline. The press sold personals in the newspaper to make their money for activities this year. Centering the CHS Press around school related activities adds to the memories of students when they later unfold those yellow-aged newspapers to show to friends and family. "CHS Speaks," "As I See It," and Pepe Conran's cartoons were some of the regular articles seen each week. The student reporters interviewed many of the CHS faculty members, finding interesting information about everything happening. The CHS Press page covered all of this year's news.

There are six officers in FFA who have helped plan their activities throughout the year. These activities have included a homecoming bonfire, selection of national officers, plans for a district meeting, and organization of contests that are agriculturally related. FFA raised money by selling rat poison and garden seeds. FFA has successfully completed one year of organization and is looking forward to many more.*

This year proved to be an active one for both the C-Club and LTC. These clubs, which join athletes of all sports together, take on projects to earn money for sports and various gifts for the community. The C-Club was sponsored this year by Coach Monken and Coach Buzzard. The club's chief money-making project was a very funny donkey basketball game. The LTC, sponsored by Coach Brinkmeyer, joined the C-Club for the donkey game as well as a Christmas caroling party. Combining their resources, the two groups purchased for Baker Gym a beautiful colorful banner showing their spirit for the basketball Trojans.

Trojets add class

Twenty-two lovely and devoted girls make up the Trojet squad. They provide much support for the football and basketball teams by performing at all the home games. Cheering the teams at out-of-town games is also on the Trojet itinerary. The girls choose their outfits as well as make up their own dance routines for half-time performances. Summer activities include the Trojet car wash, where they really "cleaned up," and a pom-pom camp at the University of Illinois for eleven of these girls. In addition to new routines, the CHS pep squad members made many new friends. All eleven of these girls won ribbons for effort and improvement, which means that they are very good at what they do. Led by this year's co-captains, Maria Arzeni and Kathy Schaefer, the group provides moral support and pep leadership for CHS fans.

NHS recognizes CHS scholars

The National Honor Society performs many tasks that most of the student body does not realize. One of these jobs is putting on the Christmas Tea to recognize those students who did exceptionally well the first grading period. In addition, to the activities the NHS holds each year, this school year they also took on a new task, offering a tutoring service to those students who need assistance in various subjects. Students initiated into the National Honor Society are certainly tops in their class.

The Charleston High School Mathematics Team of 1980-81 had a very productive year. The organization, sponsored by Mrs. Boroughs and Mr. Ruddell, traveled to Terre Haute in November for the annual Rose-Hulman contest. The team as a whole placed a respectable fifth. The Charleston juniors took an outstanding first place as a class. Those students who placed and carried the team to an honorable finish are Karen Foote, Annette Cinq-Mars, and Grant Sterling. This year, for the first time, the math team and others proficient in math have participated in the Illinois Math League Tests and also attended the Illinois Council of Teachers of Mathematics Regional Contest held at EIU.

“Sing, Sing a Song”

Andi Arnold and Liz Sellett study music diligently.

Girls ensemble is a musical group organized and directed by Mrs. Alice Jayne Swickard to provide an opportunity for girls whose schedules do not permit them to enroll in chorus to sing in a group. Twenty-eight voices can be heard practicing twice a week after school in the chorus room. This group of singers performed at the Christmas Concert. Singing together is a musical experience that can be fun, a fact this group would certainly agree with as they “sing, sing a song.”

Homecoming highlights 1980

Homecoming has left us with a collage of memories which blend and separate themselves in kaleidoscope fashion. Who could forget the marvelous parade, whose honorary marshal was C.H.S. alumnus Marty Pattin, member of the 1980 World Series runner-up Kansas City Royals? Remember the crazy days, each different from the last, our student council dreamed up and carried out so well? There were so many groups who helped turn the 1980 homecoming into a cherished memory: PAC sponsored the variety show; the sophomores outdid the upperclassmen's floats and stole the parade prize; the Trojans played on the gridiron but despite courage and stamina lost; the teachers behaved like redbirds plucking the feathers from some eagles; the seniors' chili supper was tasty; the bonfire (wood supplied by FFA) glowed in the black night and helped the cheerleaders and C-Club spark enthusiasm; the pep band raised cheers as it played the fight song, cymbals clanging; the dance was special—a night of eating in restaurants, dressing in wool skirts, borrowing the car, dancing and dancing. If the memories grow dim, a glance at these souvenirs will refresh them.

'Twas the night before Christmas . . .

'Twas the week before Christmas and all through the school students were preparing for the various activities planned by the Student Council. Monday morning students appeared bright and early to "Deck The Halls" for class competition. The next day little elves were seen running around the halls doing all kinds of deeds for the guy who purchased them. Red and green day, on Wednesday, found most of the students clothed in the colors of the season. Bathrobes, nightshirts and pajamas were the common dress for "Twas the Night Before Christmas" day. On Friday many students were seen writing their autographs on their friends' t-shirts, wishing them a Merry Christmas. The highlight of the week was the Christmas dance held on Saturday night.

Dressed for Christmas Eve, Linda Pfreiffer opens a cheery locker.

The 1981 Mr. Irresistible Dance, which took place on Valentine's Day, gave girls a chance to ask their favorite boys to be their escorts, in the Sadie Hawkins tradition. Backstreets, a band from Champaign, provided the tunes, among them the theme song, "Let Me Love You Tonight." Baker Gym, the setting for this event, was decorated in pink, red, and white streamers. Having been nominated through lunchroom voting and then chosen by the student body a week earlier, Mr. Irresistible and the princes were introduced during the dance.

Student Council now hosts the dance, which was begun in the early sixties by the Girls' Athletic Association.

"Lil' Abner" big success

The 1981 production of "Li'l Abner" in the CHS auditorium was a smashing success. The cast consisted of CHS and CJHS students as well as members of the Charleston Community Theater and various community players. Jeanne Jones, CHS English teacher who directed the play, chose the musical over a drama in order to include a larger number of participants. The play was presented to the public on four occasions, and the response was enthusiastic. Much of the enthusiasm was for the excellent music and dancing. Alice Jayne Swickard directed the chorus and the other diverse musical aspects of the play, while Jackie Bennett and Jill Strader, CHS junior, choreographed the dancing. The effect was an entertaining combination of song, dance, and humor. After an absence of several years, full-scale musical productions seem to have come back to stay.

LIL ABNER

Fleagle, Pierce Pickens, gives everyone the evil eye.

Mr. John Daum and Mrs. Ginger Stanfield direct the Charleston High School band. The band was involved in many activities this year including marching, competing in a concert band contest, playing for the Special Olympics and participating in the football and basketball games. During the year they performed three concerts: a Christmas concert, the A.F.S. concert, and their spring concert.

Seven people attended solo and ensemble contest: Sandy Ratliff, tenor saxophone; Bill Faust, Chris Toles, Mike McCullough, trombone trio; and Denise Cinq-Mars, Connie Olson, Carrie Grimes, flute trio.

Band members and music booster parents organized a January chili supper and the sale of family portraits (in connection with Gary's Photographic Service.) The proceeds financed a trip to Chicago on May 8th and 9th. The trip in Chicago included The Museum of Science and Industry and a day at Marriott's Great America.

School board confronts problems

Dr. Hill and Mrs. Padovan discuss issues with a Times Courier reporter.

The school board has been very busy this year planning for the academic and financial future of the district. There were many major changes made at all the district schools. Additions at the high school included the ag courses and chorus. Art was added at the elementary level. Other major concerns of the Board were reducing class size and keeping the student-teacher ratio low. In addition, several board meetings centered on the high school discipline system. Discipline became a controversial issue which the Board, administration, faculty and students attempted to solve.

Principals channel change

Mr. David believes that schools should be responsive to student needs while maintaining quality education. Therefore, along with the school board and faculty, he reviewed the curriculum. David also initiated a tutorial period for review and make-up work.

Mr. David enjoyed 1981. Working with a great group of students and teachers was rewarding. David was proud of the extracurricular program, too. "Athletic performances this year, although not successful in post season action, accentuated the high character and good sportsmanship of the participants," commented David. Also at the administrative helm was Assistant Principal Bill Fleming. He oversaw the class schedules and student grades. According to Fleming, the student body overcame a discipline hurdle in the last year and a half. Cooperation with the system developed by students, faculty, and administration improved and students developed better self-discipline. Of course, the secretarial staff helped David, Fleming and faculty immensely. Mrs. Wilson's voice often responded to telephone queries when Mr. David was busy elsewhere. In the attendance office, Mrs. James' and Mrs. Endsley's voices greeted telephoning parents and students who needed to communicate information on absences and illnesses. Mrs. Rennels and Miss Arnett staffed the workroom while Mrs. Wright channeled guidance problems.

Counselors push planning

From registration to graduation, CHS guidance counselors aided students in planning classes, schedules and careers. To handle the work involved in all this planning, the members of the guidance staff and their secretary separated it. Mr. Hankins, who has been here twenty-four years, two of which he spent teaching history, made schedules, held parent conferences, provided scholarship information, and arranged college entrance tests. Mrs. Crane, a seventeen-year high school counselor, also worked on scheduling and conducted conferences, in addition to providing referrals for such agencies as the Hour House and Mattoon's Training and Learning Center. The third staff member, Mrs. McFarland, took charge of career matters in this, her second year. As vocational counselor she was responsible for sequential curriculum scheduling, job placement, and bringing in speakers from the business community. Mrs. Wright, guidance secretary, maintained smooth, working order in the office, planning counselors' schedules and keeping detailed records on every student. Indeed, the counselors' duties were diverse, but all were designed to encourage students to look toward the future and make important decisions early.

Library Staff: Mrs. Myers, Mr. Strader, Miss Phillippi, and Mrs. Bomball.

It was still in the same place; it was still the same size; but the library got a face-lift from new librarian Mrs. Bomball and library veteran Mrs. Myers. Butterflies or seasonal ornaments often danced from the ceiling, tickling the fancy of studying students. Colorful signs not only brightened the room but also helped locate reference or reading material. Mrs. Bomball was pleased most by the increased circulation of volumes and by a cooperative checkout system that kept books readily available. Another improvement in the media center was a video taper-recorder, a gift from 1980's seniors. Using this machine, CHS subscribed to WILL educational TV, which brought special feature programs to nearly seventy classes per month. Tutorial period gave students added incentive for visiting the library, time which was gladly spent in such pleasant surroundings.

Teachers add variety

CHS English Faculty: Mr. Parke, Mrs. Connelly, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Wiseman, Mrs. Childress, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Webb, Mrs. Winings and Mrs. Dively.

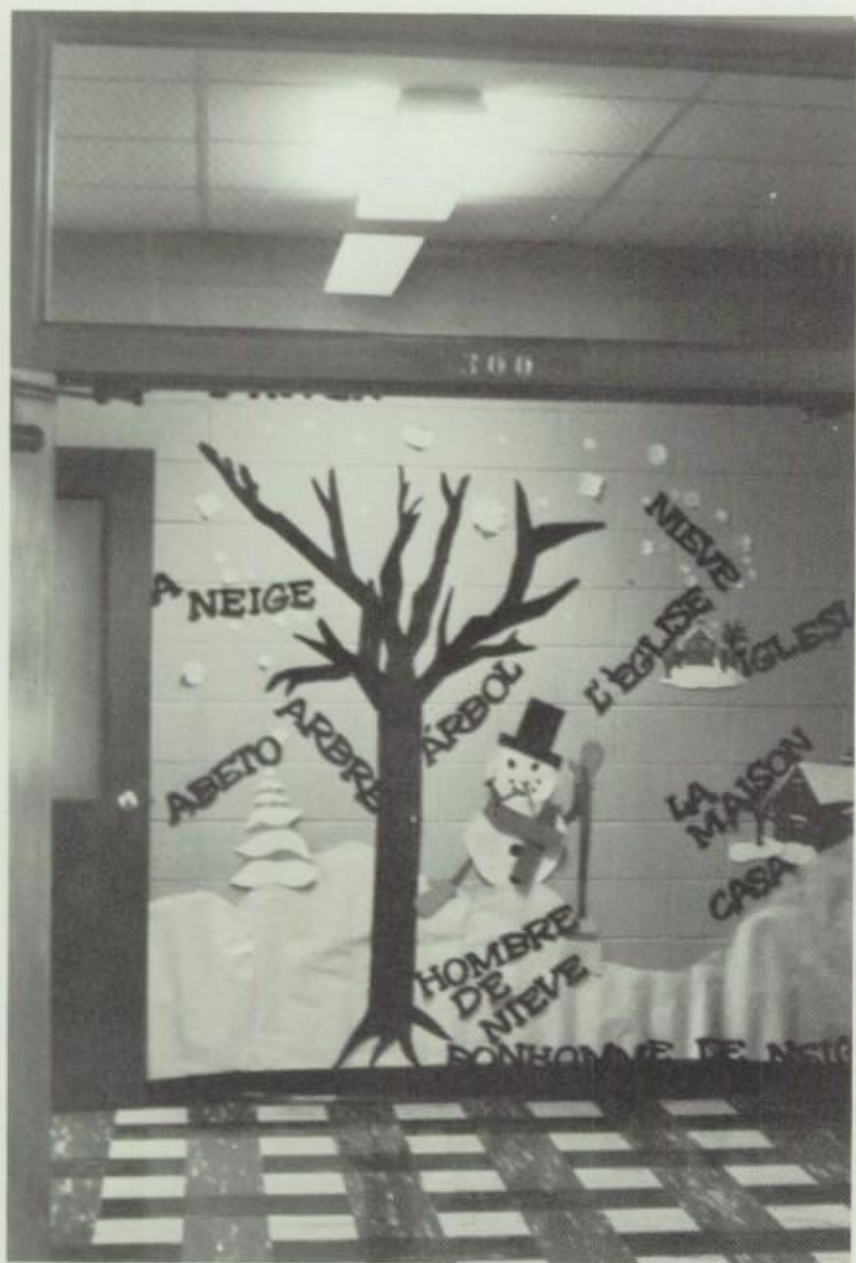

Mr. Parke encourages good English.

Teachers with varying interests and approaches to literature and living make up the foreign language and English departments. Teachers are involved in many activities, some related to school and some not. Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Winings are involved in extracurricular speech as well as in Community Theater. On long weekends and during the summer Mrs. Wiseman enjoys cross country motorcycling with her husband. Even on short weekends Mrs. Dively can get away from it all by camping or boating as close as Lake Shelbyville (with her family.) Mr. Parke spends spare time and mechanical energy by working on his car. Mrs. Johnson enjoys gardening and working on the family farm at Martinsville, Il. Mrs. Webb is of our two great yearbook sponsors and also enjoys swimming. Mrs. Childress' water time has been in the summer with her young son, Jason. Unlike the others who remain on the local scene, Mrs. Connelly and Miss Williams travel to other countries to gain insights into foreign lands and cultures. These varying interests create dynamic interaction among department members and students.

Mrs. Winnings inspires students even at 1:23 pm.

Math/science faculty promote growth

Mr. Compton prepares to lecture in his Biology I class.

As all things grow with change, so has the Charleston High School Math Department. To meet the changing times CHS added Introduction to Computer Math to its math curriculum. The math department continues to prepare the mathematical mind for bigger and better things with such courses as Algebra I and II, senior math, basic algebra, general math, and geometry. The science department offers a wide variety of courses from environment and ecology to physics. Although only one year of biology is required, the C.H.S. science classes are always filled with eager students. Miss York completed her first year in the C.H.S. Science Department, joining Mr. Adkins, Mr. Compton, and Mr. Ruddell. Mrs. Ballsrud, Mrs. Boroughs, Mrs. Dodson, and Mrs. Smitley compose the math department.

Math Dept: Mrs. Smitley, Mrs. Dodson, Mrs. Boroughs (Mrs. Ballsrud not pictured)

Mrs. Smitley helps algebra students Nancy Fluckey and Lorri Winnett.

The social science department is made up of people with diverse school and leisure interests. Academically the highlight of the year for Mr. Schmitz was the weekend he spent at Lincoln Log Cabin with his students. Mr. Schmitz, who had worked during three previous summers, guided students in the ways of the old. This year's leisure interest became a job for Schmitz. During his spare time he painted CHS hallways for the school district. Mr. Love, in addition to teaching social sciences, kept busy coaching the junior varsity basketball team. A second year CHS teacher, Mr. Love jogs and works for CCAR in his spare time. This winter, Mr. Pickens (ole' Evil Eye Fleagle) was temporarily replaced by Mrs. Boyce while he took a medical leave of absence. She spent a great deal of the school year at CHS substituting not only in history, but in a variety of classes as well. If an award were given to the faculty member who had the most school spirit and attended the most extracurricular events, Mr. Everett would be a sure winner. This year was his first year coaching the freshman football squad after resigning last year's post as freshman basketball coach. Mr. Ambrose sponsored the CHS Student Council for a second year. After school hours, he could be found painting with Mr. Schmitz or jogging with Mr. Alexander. Teacher talk is part of Mr. Walters' entire day because Mrs. Walters is also a teacher. During the summer, Mr. Walters helps out on the family farm in Cumberland County.

Art & music develop creativity

Greg Elam admires Mrs. Lathrop's expertise.

According to the art and music teachers, talent is abundant at CHS. Mrs. Lowe and Mrs. Lathrop have been quite impressed with the quality of the many projects completed in each of their Art I, Painting and Drawing and Pottery classes. Mrs. Lowe feels that art helps students appreciate the world around them, and they can use what they learn for the rest of their lives. Mrs. Swickard, Mr. Daum, and Mrs. Stanfield instruct the various musical groups at Charleston High. Mr. Daum, assisted by Mrs. Stanfield, conducts the CHS Marching Trojans. The directors and students devote a great amount of time preparing for their many performances throughout the year. "Chorus, Swing Choir and Girls Ensemble are blooming with ability," acknowledges their teacher, Mrs. Swickard. However, she would like to see more guys involved. All in all, the fine arts at CHS are in full swing.

Mrs. Lathrop, Mrs. Lowe, art.

Traub focuses on ag as business

This year agriculture classes were reinstated at CHS. Along with the new classes came a new face to the CHS faculty. Mr. Traub, an Illinois State graduate, teaches courses in business management, plant science, ag chemicals and fertilizer, orientation to ag., small engines, and welding.

Mr. Traub feels that it is important to show his students that today's farmers must be well educated. The students are given problems to solve which are much like those experienced by farmers. This illustrates to them the many things which must be considered to succeed as a farmer, as a businessman.

Mr. Traub lends needed assistance.

Travel attracts business teachers

Miss Lane, Mrs. Buffenmeyer, Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Louthan

Mrs. Allen helps Janice Updegraff determine margins.

No, Andy, your debits and credits aren't equal!

Mr. Corbin

Our business courses are taught by four well-qualified ladies who have all been at CHS for several years. Miss Lane, who teaches office practice, typing and recordkeeping courses, also finds time to enjoy many pleasurable trips, her latest being made to Austria over Christmas vacation. Mrs. Buffenmeyer's expertise lies in the field of shorthand. She, too, enjoyed a great trip to Hawaii won by her husband earlier this year. Mrs. Allen, who teaches typing, record-keeping and basic business is a traveller herself—everyday. She lives in Tuscola, where her husband is Douglas County Clerk. Accounting is Mrs. Louthan's pleasure, but she too, gets some traveling in by going to her coop students' work sites to provide any needed assistance. Mrs. Louthan's husband teaches at Jefferson. Mr. Corbin travels from EIU to CHS to teach one class of typing each morning. All these teachers do their best to prepare students for the world of business.

CHS prepares for the future

Our three first-year-at-CHS teachers who help students prepare for their future family life are all good examples of family people themselves. Mrs. McFarland's daughter Katie graduated from CHS in January this year; Mrs. Stoner's son Greg is currently a CHS freshman; Mrs. Clark, a CHS graduate, was expecting her own little Trojan when this book went to press.

Mr. Feterl, Mr. Weber, Mr. Traub, Mr. Easter, Mr. Carrell, Mr. Tipsword.

At home, Mr. Tipsword enjoys grandson Josh.

Mr. Carrell reviews state vocational guidelines.

Another aspect of a family is its home, and the most suited at putting a house together are industrial arts teachers. The initial plans are drawn up by Mr. Carrell, whose skills are in drafting. The technique Mr. Easter instills into the future carpenters is the next step in the production of the house. Mr. Tipsword enters the picture with his knowledge in metals. Mr. Feterl, whose daughter is a CHS junior, teaches students how to wire the house after Mr. Weber and his classes have erected the frame.

Teachers stress skill-building

CHS P.E. Faculty: Mr. Wyman, Mr. Drake, Mr. Bussard, and Mr. Baker.

P.E., health, and driver's education aren't your typical textbook classes. These classes stress conditioning the body and reflexes. Jumping jacks, left turns, (driver's ed.) and locating the glutius maximus replace the cerebral calisthenics in traditional academic classes. P.E. satisfies a desire to exercise and to keep fit through diverse and useful physical skills. The classes also provide less confining interaction among classmates. While the body is toned in gym class, health classes promote the mental and nutritional conditioning necessary to fulfill a safe life. Driver's education insures each student's safety against accidents.

CHS P.E. Faculty: Mrs. Brinkmeyer (seated), Mrs. Karch, Mrs. Preston, and Mrs. McFarland.

Education changes and twists

Miss Hogue discusses new materials with Mrs. Myers.

Being special at CHS is not unique because we have many very special teachers, students, and staff. However some special people have made changes or added twists to old routines. Miss Coon, Cooperative Work Training supervisor, Miss Wilson, learning instructor, and Mrs. Hammond, the specialist for the visually impaired, joined the faculty this fall. Miss Hogue found sharing a portion of her teaching load with Miss Wilson a welcome change. Besides staff addition, Miss Hogue and Mrs. Hanfland dealt with a new learning "partner". Both teachers attended summer workshops to learn to operate the Apple computer system. This year had another new twist for Mrs. Hanfland because she took on her old routine, but as an expectant mother. Although she knew the routine as a Lake Land employee who spent several hours a week here, Joyce Dively is a brand new high school staff member. She divides her day between Project Stay and English classes.

Custodians, cooks keep order

Night custodians: June Grissom, Shirley Sloan, Wayne Grissom, Joe Kissel.

Day Custodians: Bud Hildebrand, Mary Pollard, Gary Wright, Brian Chapman.

Cooks: Front; Mrs. Bough, Mrs. Price, Mrs. Cooper, Back; Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Evans, Mrs. Maples.

Imagine arriving at school at 6:00 am and staying until 4:00 pm for years and years and loving it! Gary Wright, head custodian, does just that. He and 12 other custodians keep the school spic and span. In addition to cleaning up after hoards of students, the custodians also act as repairmen and watchmen.

As CHS students push their way to the front of the lunch line, the kitchen staff has already spent several hours planning and preparing a nutritious hot lunch. The six cooks really keep our "student body" full and moving all day long.

Through nailbiting wins and upsetting losses, the 1980-81 cheerleading squad produced the much-needed energy required to lift and carry the fans and teams to enthusiastic victories. They practiced long hours to perfect their acrobatic abilities and spirited talents. As a matter of fact, the girls were given recognition as "Most Spirited" at the summer camp they attended.

The 1980 Junior Varsity volleyball team, headed by Coach Karen Karch and assisted by Bettie Jo Henning, showed up-and coming talent by amassing a 13-6 record on the year. These wins came with an added sense of accomplishment for the team, as this year's schedule was the toughest ever, including more Class AA teams. Other changes were added also. The teams used a 5-1 set up, instead of the basic 4-2 that had been used in the past. When asked to identify outstanding team members, Coach Karch responded, "All of them." And she summarized this year's volleyball season by saying, "The 1980 season was exciting, showing much improvement in a young team and much promise for the coming year."

The 1980 Varsity volleyball team, coached by Karen Karch and assisted by Beth Curtin, compiled an impressive 14-8 record for the year. The lone senior returnee was Lydia Palmer, a starting front line player. The only other senior on the varsity team was Pam Royer, a transfer student. The junior group was led by returning letter winners Ronda Leathers, Toni McNutt, Lori Kuntsman, and Janna Oetting. One of the team's most memorable wins came in the first match of the season. Coming from a 12 to 3 deficit in the third game to a 15-13 win over Decatur Lakeview was a highlight for the Lady Trojans. Coach Karch credits Janna Oetting and Toni McNutt with being the most valuable players on a very fine Trojan team.

The golf team, coached by Stan Adkins, had another outstanding showing as they wrapped up the 1980 season. The team practices long hours after school to prepare for their matches. With outstanding performances from Brian Nordin, Todd Smith, and Mike David, the varsity record was 15-4. The junior varsity wound up 4-1. Losing only three seniors this year, Coach Adkins feels optimistic about the future.

"Pyramid Power"

Running through snow, rain, and cold may sound like the motto of the U.S. Postal Service, but it's also the motto of the C.H.S. Cross Country Team. Coached by Scott Parke and Joe Sheeran, the team represents Charleston at many area meets. While many C.H.S. students are heading home, the members of the cross country team are just beginning their training. A cross country runner must run almost every day to keep in shape; so many hours of the students' free time are spent in training. Therefore, many members can be seen running and training after school. This year they competed in nineteen meets and came out with a 3-8 conference record. Cross country, although a team sport, is also an arena for individual achievement. Tim Woodall turned in fantastic performances in the Stephen Decatur, Danville, and Olney invitational and highlighted his season with a 3rd at the Mattoon Invitational. Karla Weidner paced the girls with a 3rd at C.H.S.'s own girls invitational. Tim Woodall was also named frosh-soph overall champion at the Apollo Conference competition. Losing the top seven runners from the 1979 squad, the 1980-81 cross country team was handicapped, but they can be proud of their performance.

CHS girls tennis explodes in '80

The Charleston High School girls tennis team enjoyed its most successful season with a 14 and 1 record. The only loss came from a very experienced Danville team. The team scored double victories over the always strong Mattoon and Casey teams. For the first time the girls tennis team was forced to play in the dark against Casey, Danville, and Mattoon. To end the season six girls participated in the district meet at Danville. The team tied for third, with Jennifer Taitt finishing third in the singles competition, which entitled her to participate in the state tournament at Arlington Heights.

At the sports banquet Jennifer Taitt received the Henry A. Taitt Most Valuable Player Award because of her 12-2 singles record and her always dependable doubles play. Beth Butts and Karin Weidner were the recipients of Harry Gullion Most Improved trophy.

Coach Vicki Preston said, "This was our best record ever. This year was also one of our best as a unified team. I really enjoyed working with this fine group of girls."

The Charleston Boy's Tennis Club, in only its second year, had a very successful 1981 season. The squad ended a rain shortened season with a 6-1 record in dual meets. The highlights of the season, however, were impressive team victories in both the Apollo Conference Tournament, and the Robinson Invitational. At press time, the team was preparing for the district tournament. With the loss of only two seniors, the team will return strong next year.

Freshmen yield promising season

This year's freshman football team had an excellent season. Compiling a 6-3 mark on the season, Coach Jim Drake's gridders showed good talent and many possible players for varsity level football. One of the highlights of the season was the game in which the freshmen broke Effingham's 36-game winning streak. The freshmen also put a big notch in their belt when they won the four-team Paris Invitational. Rick Everett was the assistant coach.

Sophomores value new experiences

Coach Will Wyman's gridders gained much experience playing on the varsity level for the first time. The sophomores' goal for the year, a winning record, was accomplished when they beat Newton, 12-0, compiling a 3-2 record. Coach Wyman said, "The team believed in themselves more at the end of the season. This year will hopefully be a springboard which will lead to continued success for these young men." ## Varsity season ends early

This year's griddiron campaign was in many ways a heartbreaking one. Although the grid-ders' record was not as good as it had been in the past, many hidden successes took place that did not show up in black and white. The football Trojans lost many games by a close margin. A 6-0 loss to Quincy-Notre Dame team, a 15-14 loss to conference opponent Rantoul, and a big loss to conference rival Mt. Zion—the Trojans carried a 10-6 lead into the half-account for most of the close games. Coach Bill Monken's squad was in a rebuilding year, and the Trojans expect to be tough in the future. Scott Enslen, an all-state linebacker, will be playing football for the Western Illinois Leathernecks next fall. Enslen was the only team member looking to play college football next season.

Freshmen show potential

Coach Will Wyman's freshman basketball team boasted a fine record this year. With a 12 and 3 season, Coach Wyman felt the highlight of the season was beating a strong Paris team twice.

When asked about his "A" team, he stated, "They have a lot of potential if they continue to work hard and if they will not be satisfied with their past success." Coach Wyman said of his "B" team. "They were fun to coach because they showed progress throughout the season. These boys could turn into excellent varsity players."

The 1980-81 season was a rough one for Trojan cagers as they ended the season with a 2-21 record. However, it was not without its memorable moments. After losing to Robinson at home, the team came back to whip the Maroons at Robinson. The Trojans gained considerable experience playing against 7 ft. 2 in. Uwe Blab and giving Effingham all they wanted in the regional tournament. Head coach Rick Bussard had nothing but praise for the members of the squad, "Our players worked extremely hard from the first day to the last. It was a real pleasure to work with this year's squad." Bussard added, "Each player improved his ability, and that is what you work for."

JV Girls strive for success

The 1980-81 girls' JV basketball team compiled a 4-11 record for the season. The girls had several narrow losses, including the Lakeview-CHS game, in which Lakeview bested the Lady Trojans by only two points. Coach Byrdsong was especially proud of the efforts put forth in this game, mentioning that the girls played well and achieved balanced scoring. Notable effort was put forth by all of the team's members, particularly Cathy James, who had been held scoreless in five straight games, and scored ten points in the final game of the season. When asked for a statement to sum up the season, Coach Byrdsong responded, "I was very pleased with the overall accomplishments of the team and with individual improvement."

Girls court victories

This was a season of rebuilding for the girls varsity basketball team. Even though the season was not outstanding, these Lady Trojans had some very outstanding performances. Two excellent examples are Kim Weir's last-second steal and drive to score the winning basket against Paris in the Apollo Conference Tournament and Janna Oetting's 27 points and 27 rebounds against Robinson. The Lady Basketball Trojans advanced in the conference tournament only to lose a heartbreaker to Newton in the championship. According to Coach John Easter, "We had a real fine group of girls on our team this year. With all the ups and downs, injuries and the like, we had a good season. With almost everyone back next year, I expect to have a real good season."

Varsity baseball boasts good season

The 1981 varsity baseball team put on a fine showing to end the 1980-81 sports year at CHS. At press time the team had compiled an impressive 17-4 record, finished second in the conference, and were playing very well going into regional play. Coach Monken felt very confident about the regional and was optimistic about later tournament play. The team, which boasted a fine batting average, was led by Tim Parker who hit .458. Other team leaders included Brian Lindberg with five home runs, Rick Beavers and Mike North with thirteen stolen bases apiece, and Rick Beavers with twenty-nine runs batted in. All in all, the team had a good season.

The strongest opponent this year's junior varsity baseball team faced was the weather. Heavy rains washed away over half of the team's schedule. As a result, the freshmen and sophomores on the team spent most of their time practicing. In the games they were able to play, they recorded one win against Effingham, dropped both games in doubleheaders against Mt. Zion and Robinson, and lost one game to Paris. They finished with an overall record of 1-5. Hopefully next spring will be brighter for these CHS baseball players.

Softball comes to CHS

Although their record may not show it, the 1981 season was a rewarding one for the CHS softball club. This being their first year, the girls gained much valuable experience. The club is comprised of thirty-one members, while only sixteen travel. At the time this book was published, the team's record was 2-9.

Raising money was a major goal of the club, since they are self-supporting. Among their money-making projects were two car washes and a bake sale. Coach Karen Karch commented, "I'm glad the girls at CHS had an opportunity to play this year and feel that they have improved greatly."

Head Coach Sharon Brinkmeyer, Assistant Coach Rosie York, and student coaches, Deb Lake, Donna Springer, Joe Sheeran, LeAnn Peterson, and Karen Bower, led this year's girls' track team to its fifth straight Apollo Conference title. Other exciting accomplishments for the team included their performances at District. Freshman Kate Jackson placed second and qualified for the state meet; Pam Harshbarger placed fourth in the 200 meter dash; Denise Bough was third in high jump; and the 800 meter relay team of Harshbarger, Boldt, Wharton, and Weir placed fifth. The outstanding sportsmanship award went to senior Pam Harshbarger. Coach Brinkmeyer remarked on the 1980-81 girls track team, "We had our ups and downs this year, but we definitely finished on the "up" side. The most encouraging aspect of our team is our youthful talent."

School skirmishes for fun

Intramurals give non-varsity athletes the opportunity to participate in organized sports. Coach Bussard and Mrs. McFarland organized this year's after-school activities. The choices included badminton, basketball and aerobic dance. A wrestling program guided by CJHS teacher Lew Hankensen completed the intramural offerings. The wrestling club prepared for and participated in several matches during the winter season. Mrs. McFarland summarized the reason intramurals are offered when she said, "Intramurals provide opportunities for students to exercise and relax while meeting interesting people."

CHS boys stride forward

A relatively young CHS boys track team withstood a long and tough season. The squad, with only one senior, was under the direction of Coach Drake. They traveled to and participated in several dual and invitational meets, coming away with some hard-earned wins. The season started out reasonably well for the athletes, but some members of the team were later suspended from competition due to training violations. These complications did create some problems for the team; however, the remaining members continued to persevere in every event.

In Memoriam

Kerry Ann Grigoroff

May 26, 1966—October 8, 1980

Celebrating her thirteenth birthday, Kerry still smiles despite losing her hair through chemotherapy and radiation.

With family nearby, Kerry poses astride her new bike, a favorite Christmas present.

Kerry, an honor student, can best be described as a girl of action. Her interests included swimming, softball, kickball, sewing, and bicycling. She enjoyed books, crafts, music, and theater, and spent time collecting political campaign material. Kerry was very involved with people. Stricken with leukemia in seventh grade, she continued her active life. She died shortly after beginning her freshman year.

Prom rewards effort

Becky Lawson and Ross Garren chat with junior sponsor Mrs. Crane.

Teresa Lang thinks Doug Drake is tops.

Annie Heise and Tom Sherman pose for a souvenir of their fun-filled evening.

Lisa Towles, Chris Weber, Marsha McVey, and David Bryden make a grand entrance.

Kris Felstehausen and Jon Ziegler have the floor.

The 1981 Junior/Senior Prom culminated several weeks' planning and several people's concentrated efforts. Having sold concessions at athletic events throughout the year, the junior class funded the dance, and no admission was charged. Its setting, EIU's Grand Ballroom, was decorated by juniors Kelly Rankin, Patty Patterson, Valerie Miller, Jon Ziegler, Becky Lawson, Annie Heise, and Tom Sherman. Its theme, "Looking Through the Eyes of Love," was captured in the lyrics of the song by the same name which was one of many performed by "The Artisticks." Senior Lisa Towles composed a poem which was printed in the dance program. After prom, the Elks Club hosted a reception with music furnished by E.L. Krackers. The result of everyone's hard work was a festive and memorable night.

Jump rope participants bounce for bucks.

Mr. Traub, Marilyn Childress, Kevin Seeley, Dawn Replogle, Debbie Carey, Gordon Henderson, Mike Gunter, David Malone, David Vaultonburg, Brad Wetzel, Jon Cole, Jon Strader, and Brad Miller host an entertaining agricultural week.

John Merryman and Kevin Henderson inspect future technology at the U. of I. Engineering Open House.

C-Club members Chris Whitley, Chuck Birch, Scott Enslen, Tim Parker, and Keith Foster guard against fierce faculty.

Anna Breig and Kendra Hudson team up for Heart money-maker.

Karen Struska and Peggy Ballew admire egg nursery.

Three stooges, Phil Lang, Chuck Birch, and Harold Birch, fake injury to avoid real beating in Faculty/C-Club basketball game.

Brian Nordin narrows choices on Mathematics Association of America test.

Against the appropriate backdrop, Mrs. Boroughs coaches math contestant David McIlvain.

Scott Enslen, John Hurst, and Darrin Bacon attempt to sweet-talk their mounts before Donkey Basketball Game.

Held on May 21st, awards night at CHS recognized the achievements of graduates and of a few underclassmen. Administrators, faculty, heads of local organizations, and even students made presentations to seniors who excelled in some field, academic or extra-curricular. Besides those pictured, recipients included Wendy Ebinger—Rotary Scholarship; Annie Heise, Jeff Johnson, and Jana Nielsen—Charleston Woman's Club Awards; Peggy Snoddy and Scott Enslen—D.A.R. and American Legion Awards; and members of student council, CHS Press, Trojets, and the cheerleading squad. Attended mainly by parents, the ceremony took place in a nearly-packed auditorium and gave graduates a fitting send-off.

Graduates listen attentively.

Grant Sterling calmly waits his turn.

Aide Linda Pfeiffer and Marshall Ranjeev Nanda march onto the field.

Despite cloudy skies and a brief downpour prior to the ceremony's beginning, graduation for the Class of 1981 was conducted outside on May 29. After marching to their seats, graduates heard an invocation given by Grant Sterling, speeches by Valedictorian Allison Lazenby and Salutatorian Angie McArthur, and "Reach for the Stars" sung by the chorus. Then Dr. Hill, superintendent, presented the class, and 243 seniors received diplomas from Mrs. Padovan, president of the Board of Education. Terra Yarbrough gave a benediction, and John Hurst signalled class members to turn their tassles. Finally, amid a flurry of flying red hats, graduates disrobed and joined relatives and friends who greeted them with warm congratulations.
